INTERIOR DESIGN

Drexel's Interior Design Major Program offers exciting opportunities for the study of interior design within the multi-disciplinary learning environment of the Antoinette Westphal College of Media Arts & Design. Through academics grounded in problem-solving design studios, cooperative employment, and dedicated faculty, the interior design program prepares students for leadership positions in the interior design industry. Within the context of increasingly more complex design projects, the behavioral, technological, and aesthetic aspects of interior design are explored. Combined with Art & Art History and general education requirements, a core of interior design courses creates a unique education at the forefront of design. To prepare for increasingly international career options, students may choose to participate in the Drexel in London Program or other study abroad options.

Employers who have hired Drexel students include:
Ballinger Hellyer Berman Lewis Ewing Cole Floss Barber Space Design The Gettys Group University of Pennsylvania BBG-BBGM West Chester University

The undergraduate interior design program is accredited by the Council for Interior Design Accreditation, CIDA, formerly known as FIDER.

Students wanting specific information about the major are encouraged to stop by the department office in Nesbitt Hall, call the department at 215-895-1649, or visit their website at www.drexel.edu/westphal/
