

Part-Time Study

Adult Education Opportunities

Drexel University offers a number of flexible degree and certificate options for adults and part-time students.

Part-Time Undergraduate Programs

For students who require flexibility, Drexel offers several undergraduate degrees on a part-time basis, including evening programs. Some programs require day courses in order to complete the degree. Part-time students are limited to a maximum of 11.5 credits per academic quarter (term).

Saturday Scholars® Accelerated Programs

Students can finish a college degree in as little as two years with a Saturday-only program. The Saturday Scholars® program is designed for transfer students with a minimum of 24 credits.

Non-Degree Option

An applicant who wishes to enroll in a degree program and is transferring credits from a regionally accredited institution may be accepted as a matriculated student provided he or she meets the course requirements and GPA standards. Applicants not meeting these requirements may be admitted as non-degree students. For other non-degree opportunities, please see below.

Who Should Use This Application

This application serves the following types of Drexel applicants:

- Part-Time Undergraduate Students: Applicants applying to part-time undergraduate study programs (refer to page 2).
- Part-Time Accelerated Undergraduate Students (Saturday Scholars®): Applicants for a Saturday Scholars® program (refer to page 2).
- Non-Degree Students: Applicants are considered part-time and are permitted to schedule a maximum of 11.5 credits per term.

Applicants who are considered non-degree students include:

1. Applicants with prior non-Drexel college experience seeking a Drexel degree. Applicants must earn 24 Drexel credits before being evaluated for full matriculation.
2. Applicants currently enrolled at another college or university wishing to complete courses at Drexel for credit, which may be transferred back to their “home” school.
3. Applicants who have already earned a bachelor’s degree and wish to enroll in an undergraduate prerequisite course for graduate study at Drexel. To ensure credits are transferable, students are responsible for checking with their intended graduate program department.
4. Applicants with no prior college experience, taking courses with the intent of ultimately receiving a degree. Applicants must earn 24 Drexel credits before they will be reviewed for acceptance to a degree program.
5. Applicants without any college experience who have special academic needs and ultimately may apply for undergraduate study at Drexel.

Note: Non-degree students are required to have a high school diploma.

International students must provide a copy of their I-20 from their current institution to enroll as a non-degree student.
