This symposium is designed to provide gastroenterologists, primary care physicians, NPs, PAs, and nurses who are involved in the management of liver patients with the most up-to-date information about the diagnosis, management and treatment options for complex liver disease, as presented at the recent DDW & EASL meetings.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

After attending this program, the participant will be able to:

- Discuss guidelines for the diagnosis and management of hepatitis B and C virus infection as presented at the gastroenterology and hepatology meetings.

- Recognize new information on management of the most common complications of liver failure (ascites, infection, renal dysfunction) from the 2016 national and international conferences.

- Identify new treatments and management of decompensated liver failure and NASH.

- Manage and plan the treatment of hepatocellular carcinoma according to the most recent information presented at the liver conferences.
