

TEACHER EDUCATION

Elementary Education

Secondary Education

The School of Education’s undergraduate programs are designed not only for individuals who would like to become certified teachers, but also for those who are interested in innovations in research and technology. Students receive training in the most updated trends in theory, instruction, and technology in the classroom and are then provided opportunities for observation and practice in the form of relevant field experiences. The program also focuses on computers, multimedia, and other learning technologies.

The School of Education offers Pennsylvania Department of Education-approved programs to certify students who want to be teachers in elementary education (with an emphasis on mathematics, science, and technology) and secondary education (in biology, chemistry, earth and space science, environmental education, general science, mathematics, and physics).

Students wanting specific information about the major are encouraged to stop by the department office in the Korman Center, room 208, call the department at 215-895-6770, or visit their website at <http://www.drexel.edu/soe/>.
