

SPORT MANAGEMENT

The Bachelor of Science in Sport Management is designed for students who plan to pursue careers in sport industry-focused organizations with an emphasis on business, media, law, marketing, and other similar areas of concentration or in the health and wellness or recreation industries. The major draws on the strengths of many of the University's academic programs including business, communications, and technology, and focuses on the integration of these applicable areas of learning. The program emphasizes the practical application of skills in the management of sports, athletics, and recreation on the professional, amateur, and community levels.

Students wanting specific information about the major are encouraged to stop by the department office at 3001 Market Street, call the department at 215-895-2159, or visit their website at goodwin.drexel.edu/smt/index.php.
