

BUSINESS AND ENGINEERING

The Business and Engineering Major Program combines two of Drexel’s most exciting programs. The B&E program contains a broad-based business and engineering curriculum, which enables graduates to work successfully in technically-oriented business positions. Students complete a set of functional business core courses along with a firm foundation in science, mathematics, and engineering. Students also complete more in-depth study in the areas of operations management, entrepreneurship, finance, and marketing, while also studying the functional areas of engineering. The major prepares students for managerial and administrative positions in any business organization, especially where competence in engineering, science, and technology is critical.

Employers who have hired Drexel students include:
