

FINANCE

Throughout the finance curriculum, students develop and apply quantitative skills for making financial decisions within the business environment. The concentration prepares students for careers in private business firms, including positions involving forecasting and budgeting for financial resources, cost-effectiveness analysis, control of expenditures, evaluation and financing of new projects, and evaluation of alternative methods of financing. Graduates are prepared for positions in the investment field, in financial institutions, and in government positions at the federal, state, and local levels.

For more information about the concentration, call 215-895-1741 or visit <http://www.lebow.drexel.edu/Faculty/Departments/Finance/index.php>
