Course Objectives

This intermediate course is designed to review and practice grammatical structures and vocabulary introduced in the basic level of German. It will increase the knowledge about the culture of the German-speaking world, its past and present. The course will further focus on the development of communicative skills and the ability to use German in extended discourse and abstract discussions. At the end of the course, students will not have moved toward a higher level of proficiency in their speaking and writing skills. In combination with language learning, students in German 201 will be introduced to intermediate communication skills that relate to the German culture. The course will focus on improving upon three essential aspects of intercultural communication: openness, knowledge, and adaptability. Exposure to these types of situations and increased cultural knowledge will help students improve their ability to communicate with those from different cultures not only with their grammar and vocabulary knowledge, but from their overall intercultural communicative abilities.

How do we reach our intercultural communication goals?

In order to help you reach the expected level of intercultural communication skills that have been determined for this level of language learning, you will be confronted with important cultural information and situations that you may encounter in the German culture. This information will be introduced in a variety of ways, from drawing comparisons between the German culture and your own, to exploring the historical and political contexts under which cultural conventions have formed, as well as discussing how the German language is used in certain situations as opposed to others. In addition to class discussions, you will also be expected to draw cultural references from literature provided to you in class. At the end of this course, you should have a collection of facts and knowledge about German culture, history, and contemporary issues, and should be able to decide which behaviors are appropriate in more advanced settings—for example, how you would act at a business meeting or when making acquaintances. After taking German 201, you will have built on the foundation of cultural knowledge you were introduced to in the previous levels in German, which will assist you when interacting with anyone from the German culture on a more complex level.

Required Texts

Stationen: Ein Kursbuch für die Mittelstufe. 2Nd edition. Boston, Mass.: Thompson Higher Education, 2012.

EXPECTED LEARNING OUTCOME

Listening	Reading	Spoken Interaction	Spoken Production	Writing
The student can understand the main points of standard speech on matters regularly encountered in work, school, leisure, etc. The student can understand the main points of many radio or TV programs on current affairs or topics of personal or professional interest when the delivery is relatively slow and clear.	The student can understand texts that consist mainly of everyday or job-related language. The student can understand the description of events, feelings, and wishes in personal letters.	The student can deal with most situations likely to arise whilst travelling in areas where the language is spoken. The student can enter unprepared into conversation on topics that are familiar, of personal interest, or pertinent to every life (e.g. family, hobbies, work, travel and current events).	The student can connect phrases in a simple way in order to describe experiences and events, and their hopes and ambitions. The student can give brief reasons and explanations for their opinions and plans. The student can narrate a story or relate the plot of a book or film, and can describe their reactions.	The student can write simple, connected text on topics that are familiar or of personal interest. The student can write personal letters describing experiences and impressions.

In addition to building upon your foundation of the German language, this course will provide you with tools to improve your understanding of intercultural communication with a focus on the German culture. In this course, you will improve upon your openness, knowledge, and adaptability in intercultural situations and will therefore obtain the intermediate level of intercultural communication skills that you are expected to have in German 201.

Level 2 - Intermediate Intercultural Communication Skills

As a result of gaining more experience, I now perceive intercultural encounters with a more knowledgeable and open point-of-view. I have a mental checklist of the sorts of situations I am likely to deal with during these encounters, and I have begun to develop my skills in order to cope with them. I am more prepared for the need to respond and adapt to unfamiliar situations and I now see patterns in the various experiences I have had, and I am able to draw conclusions from those patterns without seeking advice. I prefer to respond in a neutral way when differences arise, rather than approving or disapproving.

Overview
Of Competence

1) I now see the uncertainties that can arise from intercultural encounters as an interesting challenge, as long as the issues at hand are not personal to me.

Openness

2) I react neutrally to cultural differences rather than categorizing them immediately as “good” or “bad”.

1) I go out of my way to find out about the cultures that I will be working with, paying attention to facts as well as values, customs, and practices that are common in those cultures.

2) When I encounter new values, customs, or practices, I incorporate that gained knowledge into an overall system of principles.

Knowledge

3) I have developed a mental checklist of how others may perceive, feel, and respond differently to a range of my own behaviors. This allows me to put others at ease and avoid upsetting them or causing discomfort.

1) The way that I act is influenced by principles that I have established from my knowledge of other cultures, and I often plan for intercultural encounters including ambiguous situations.

2) I adapt my behavior in new situations, taking into account the lessons I have learned from previous intercultural situations. I sometimes will adopt the behaviors of others, rather than waiting for them to adopt mine.

3) I seek to achieve successful communication by making my intentions clear and by adapting to the communication styles of others. When there is a problem with communication, I often find ways to solve it. For example, I will reinforce my statements with hand gestures, re-explaining, or simplifying.

Adaptability

4) I know a number of useful strategies for dealing with common intercultural communication problems.

GRADING

Grading Rubric (Note: total points possible for the term is 1000 pts.)

Grading:

Participation and Preparation	200 points
Blackboard Activities	200 points
Oral presentation (2 @ 50 pts.)	100 points
Essay (2 @ 75 pts.)	150 points
Midterm	100 points
Final Examination	150 points
Media reflections	100 points

A. Class Participation (20%):

Since a substantial portion of your grade depends on active class participation, regular attendance is crucial. If the student misses four classes unexcused or arrive late to class four times, your grade for the course will drop substantially (i.e. B- to C+). It is also the quality of participation, which is important. The answers the student provides and the interest in learning the language the student demonstrates is very important. This involves participating productively in our weekly excursions and contributing to class room discussions.

What is active and productive participation?

- Being prepared for class/completing homework on time
- Producing and volunteering with constructive comments (more isn't always better)
- Being active group work
- Sharing ideas
- Listening to and respecting the ideas and comments of your peers

In order to participate in class and to fulfill your obligation to others during group and pair activities, attendance is mandatory and roll will be taken every day. This grade will reflect both the quantity and quality of your participation. A detailed description of each letter grade for participation follows.

B. Blackboard Activities

As this is a hybrid course, the student must actively engage in the tasks assigned on BbVista. They are due by the Sunday of every week. The task will involve discussions, reading and listening assignment in order to practice all skills.

C. Oral Presentations

The student will prepare two oral presentations (Referate) on a topic, which fits in with the subject of each unit presented and discussed in book. These presentations aim at making student comfortable in public speaking in the target language. For each oral presentation the student might use a written aid, but should not read his presentation. The student should also be prepared to answer questions.

D. Essays

In this course the student will write two essays, which will increase in words throughout the term. The essays are initially returned by the instructor with suggestions for improvement and must be re-submitted by the date indicated. The essay is worth 50 points and they can hand in a rough draft. The student needs to submit the essays typed and by the date the instructor has assigned.

E. Media Journal

The student will write bi-weekly movie journal entries. The instructor will assign a movie to watch every two weeks. The students will need to summarize the plot and write a critique of the movie. The objective of this task is to engage the student in critical thinking and to make him or her more comfortable with writing in the target language.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS:

1) Drop policy:

Drexel University allows students to drop a course through the end of the sixth week of the term. This means that you will not be allowed to drop a course, even if you are failing, after the sixth week of the term. The number of times you have already been absent, the status of your lab hours and, above all, the result of your midterm testing and other evaluations (chapter tests, quizzes, homework) are your best guide to decide whether or not you should drop the course.

2) Attendance policy:

Since learning a foreign language is a participatory endeavor, attendance is mandatory at all class meetings. Students are allowed to miss no more than four classes during the term. Students who exceed the maximum number of allowable absences will find that their final grade will be adversely affected.

3) Final exam:

Please note: The scheduling of final exams is done by SRC on a University-wide basis. The final exam date cannot be changed and may not correlate to the class meeting time/days. Final exam week runs Monday through Saturday. If you miss your final exam, your instructor is under no obligation to provide you an alternate time to make-up the exam.

OTHER RESOURCES:

The Conversation Network:

Through the English Language Center, located on the first floor of the Language and Communication Center, German language students may sign up for a conversation partner. The Conversation Network is designed to give Drexel students an opportunity to meet and converse with a foreign student who has come to Drexel to learn English. This program is not designed to replace daily preparation for class, but rather can provide a forum for informal student interaction. Students may sign up for the Conversation Network by stopping by the English Language Center, or sending an e-mail to: Conversation.Network@drexel.edu, or by phoning them at (215) 895-2022.

Drexel University encourages all students to study and/or work abroad as part of their academic program.

Available options include:

1. Intensive Language Study Abroad:

Drexel University offers many opportunities to study abroad. For students new to Drexel or to study abroad, this site is the place to start: <http://www.drexel.edu/studyabroad/learn/>. This section addresses important questions about financial matters and academic issues. It will also inform you about the type of programs and locations available around the globe.

2. Co-op and Internships Abroad:

Drexel Abroad programs in languages and the liberal arts are administered by the director of International Area Studies and include study-internship programs in Europe and intensive language programs in China, Japan and Russia. They require junior status, with a 3.0 average (3.5 for pre-juniors), completion of level 203 of the target language (except in London), and at least two upper-division courses in history, politics and sociology. Internships in Belgium are with the European Parliament, and in other countries with multinational corporations or with organizations and agencies in a variety of disciplines. <http://www.drexel.edu/scdc/coop/abroad/>

3. International Programs:

The Office of International Programs offers a number of discipline-specific programs abroad (most of which do not require substantive language skills), including the opportunity for Drexel students in a variety of majors to study/co-op in London. Information is available on the Study Abroad website: <https://drexel.studioabroad.com/>, by emailing the Study Abroad office at: studyabroad@drexel.edu or by contacting Daniela Ascarelli, Study Abroad Director at (215) 895-1704.

Course Change Policy

This syllabus is designed to provide students with ample understanding of course expectations, so that meeting these expectations is a clear and attainable goal. Changes may be implemented at any time, before or during the course, at the instructor's discretion. In the event of any changes to the syllabus, students will be provided with an updated copy via email.
