RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

RESEARCH ASSISTANT

Supervisor: Robert Morgan, PhD 2013–Present
Texas Tech University, Lubbock, TX

Responsibilities: Co-designed a meta-analytic investigation of telemental health services in correctional settings; coded primary studies; conducted meta-analyses; co-wrote presentation and manuscript for publication.

Supervisor and Dissertation Chair: Kirk Heilbrun, PhD 2009–Present
Drexel University, Philadelphia, PA

Responsibilities: I have been involved in all aspects of research over the course of numerous research and consultation projects (see, e.g., publications and presentation during this time period), including developing programs, designing studies, and developing program evaluations; applying for grant funding; managing IRB protocols and audits; recruiting, consenting, and collecting data from participants; coordinating and supervising undergraduate and graduate lab members; analyzing data; writing manuscripts; and coordinating presentation and publication submissions. My thesis and dissertation pertain to offender self-perceptions of risk for criminal recidivism, treatment needs to reduce that risk, the predictive utility of such perceptions, and the impact of therapeutic assessment feedback on self-perceptions and readiness for correctional treatment. My stipend has also been partially funded via a contract my mentor has with a private corrections company, which was provided in exchange for my assistance with designing outcome evaluations and analyzing very large data sets.

Dissertation: The prediction of criminal recidivism using self- and evaluator-appraised risk and needs (date collection to be completed in March 2015).

Thesis: RNR-based assessment feedback: Reception by offenders and impact on self-perceived risk and needs, motivation for change, and treatment readiness. See:
<https://idea.library.drexel.edu/handle/1860/4475>.

Supervisor: Eve Brank, JD, PhD 2008
University of Florida, Gainesville, FL

Responsibilities: Interviewed elder caregivers and developed a poster presentation based on a subset of collected data. See also: Wylie, L. E., & Brank, E. M. (2009). Assuming elder caregiver responsibility: Am I a caregiver? Journal of Empirical Legal Studies, 6, 899–924.

Supervisor: Lora Levett, PhD 2008
University of Florida, Gainesville, FL

Responsibilities: Consented, ran, and debriefed participants in an eyewitness study involving deception, and entered data for another project about mock juror decision making and television program viewing habits. See: Levett, L. M. (2009, March). Co-witness information influences whether a person is likely to choose from a lineup. Paper presented at the meeting of the American Psychology-Law Society, San Antonio, TX; Hayes-Smith, R. M., & Levett, L. M. (2011). Jury's still out: How television and crime show viewing influences jurors' evaluations of evidence. Applied Psychology in Criminal Justice, 7(1), 29–46.

Supervisor: Michelle Bishop, PhD 2008
University of Florida, Gainesville, FL

Responsibilities: Transcribed audiotaped interviews with bone marrow transplant survivors and their spouses, and trained other students on the transcription procedures. See: Bishop, M. M., Curbow, B. A., Springer, S. H., Lee, J. A., & Wingard, J. R. (2011). Comparison of lasting life changes after cancer and BMT: Perspectives of long-term survivors and spouses. Psycho-Oncology, 20, 926–934.
