SUMMER 2014 TRAVEL/STUDY

DREXEL UNIVERSITY ARCHITECTURE & INTERIORS

JOHN DeFAZIO INSTRUCTOR

This Summer, 2014, with Drexel University's Architecture & Interiors, Adjunct Professor, John DeFazio, will be running a Travel/Study Program to Chicago and Wisconsin, USA. Through a series of lectures, research, writing, drawing and travel, we will be studying the birth of a distinctly American modern Architecture, starting with masterworks of H.H. Richardson (the Glessner House), Louis Sullivan (the Chicago Auditorium & Carson Pirie Scott & Co. Building), and Daniel Burnham (the Rookery and the Master Plan for Chicago).

We will then focus on the emergence and evolution of a new, modern building type-- the skyscraper. Starting with the first Chicago School, "the battle" between New York and Chicago tower style in design, then the impact of The Chicago Tribune Competition and the Art Deco Chicago that followed, the Second Chicago School of the mid-Twentieth Century, the birth of the SuperTall, the Post Modern critique of it, and the cutting edge of tower design today. Pivotal tower buildings of this tour will be the Monadnock Building, the Reliance Building, the Chicago Tribune Building, Chicago Board of Trade, the Inland Steel Building, Marina City, the John Hancock Building, the Willis Tower, the Trump Tower, and the Auqa Tower. We will also be examining in depth the American works of Mies van der Rohe, including Lake Shore Towers, Crown Hall, the Campus of IIT, the Chicago Federal Center, and the Farnsworth House. We will tour the buildings of Mid-Century Modern Masters as well, such as Eero Saarinen, Walter Netsch, and Bertrand Goldberg, and many contemporary works of Frank Gehry, Renzo Piano, Adrian Smith, Jeanne Gang, Rem Koolhaas and Santiago Calatrava.

We will also analyze and survey in depth the works of Frank Lloyd Wright. First starting at River Forest, Oak Park, and then onto Racine, Milwaukee and Spring Green Wisconsin, we will follow Wright's development of a new concept of architectural space, the building fabric that shapes it, and a new relationship between architecture, man and the landscape. We will be seeing many of Wright's masterpieces in the formation of Modern architecture-- Unity Temple, the Robie House, Johnson Wax Headquarters and Tower, and Wright's own home and studios' at Oak Park and Taliesin East.

Please consider enrolling in this unique opportunity to study the genesis of not only American architecture, interiors and engineering but the very cornerstone of Modern Architecture itself.
